

Shelley Brown
Partner
Bromgold Workplace Diversity

Shelley Brown brings over 20 years of corporate experience in Human Resources in high tech, insurance, consumer products and pharmaceuticals. She is President of Bromelin People Practices, a unique Human Resources Consulting Service that specializes in Talent Management, High Potential Identification, Accelerated Leadership Development Programs and Succession planning. Her previous role was Vice President, Human Resources at a top 10 Canadian pharmaceutical organization for 8 years.

Shelley is also a partner in Bromgold Workplace Diversity, an innovative organization that has designed a new, cutting edge diversity research tool, focusing on new immigrants and visible minorities in the workplace. This Bromgold Diversity Index is an organizational diversity and inclusion tool that results in an in-depth view of the organization and the required inclusion strategies to be implemented in order to achieve top employer status.

Shelley is a professional coach with The Coaches Institute, a Senior Human Resources Professional (SHRP) and has an educational background in psychology and organizational behaviour. She is an on-call contributor to the “Working” section of the Montreal Gazette and has been a guest lecturer at Concordia and McGill. Shelley is finishing her first book, entitled “Moving Up Without Sucking Up”, which will be published in late 2010. She is also an active Board Member and supporting Partner of the West Island Community Shares Charity.